GERMANY TO PAY 226,000,000 MARKS REPARATION

PARIS, Jan. 29.—The allied supreme council today approved the German reparations plan drafted by its special committee last night. The plan provides for the payment of Germany of 226,000,000 marks in annual instalments, on a rising scale beginning with payment of two billion marks the first two years, and in addition the payment of a 12 per cent. tax on German exports. The plan was in the hands of the printer early this afternoon and will be signed when the council meets for its second session today at 4 p.m.

The plan will be communicated to the Germans in a few days and they will be invited to a conference on February 28 to consider the terms.

In the meantime, the Brussels council on economic experts will resume its sessions on February 7. The penalties provided in the reparations plan are in general the same as under the treaty of Versailles, including both military and economic measures.

PARIS, Jan. 28.—The divergence of views of the members of the allied supreme council regarding the reparations caused an interruption of the conference today as in some quarters it is regarded as in danger of breaking up. The crisis came over the question of finding the means to pay reparations due from Germany and the methods of payment. The session of the council which was to have begun at 4:20 o'clock this afternoon was abandoned.

The optimistic feeling of this forenoon, when the members of the allied reparations committee, appointed yesterday, expressed unanimous approval of the reparations plan, however, was entirely unsatisfactory. The committee was divided on the question of the French proposal for the maintenance of the military alliance which was won the war.

The allied committee on reparations is continuing its efforts to reconcile the different viewpoints, while M. Briand and Mr. Lloyd George try to find a solution in private conversations.

PARIS, Jan. 29.—Germany will be required to pay 226,000,000,000 marks in annual instalments, under the plan submitted to the supreme allied council today by the Reparations Commission. The plan provides for the payment of 226,000,000,000 marks in annual instalments, under the plan submitted to the supreme allied council today by the Reparations Commission.

In addition Germany will be required to pay a 12 per cent tax on her exports, this tax calculated on the basis of German exports in 1913 would total a little more than a billion marks half could mark the plan submitted would place the task of collecting the tax on the allied reparations commission.

It is understood that for the purpose of inducing Germany to pay off her reparations debt as rapidly as possible she would be allowed discounts on her annual payments. These discounts would be fixed at 10 per cent the first two years, six per cent the two following and five per cent the remaining thirty-eight years.

As a guarantee against Germany defaulting on her payments, the committee recommended that in such an event German customs might be seized and new or increased taxes imposed without prejudice to any measures the allies might take if this plan proved inadequate. The plan would be forbidden to contract any foreign loan without permission from the reparations commission.

Announcements early today indicated the belief that the committee's report, which was expected to be ready by this afternoon, would be such that it would be quickly accepted by the council.

While this solution of the reparations problem did not appear to arouse enthusiasm here today, it was hailed French opinion. The text of the agreement was completed too late to permit of an extensive discussion. Paris newspapers were generally agreed that it satisfied all desires of nations.

JOURNALS ARE SOMEWHAT DIVIDED IN OPINIONS

LONDON, Jan. 31.—Allied reparations terms "decided upon by the supreme council this morning it was described as 'fledgling' by the Manchester Guardian today. The newspaper said:

"We may be thankful the terms can never be executed." In the opinion of this journal Germany will be able to pay indemnities only by exported goods.

"If she exported every year an additional £300,000,000 worth of goods to France, England and Belgium," the newspaper said, "the outcry raised by competing manufacturers of those countries would be heartrending. It is already audible."

From Different Angles. The editorials in the Sunday newspapers approached the Paris agreement from different angles and came to different conclusions. The Daily Express decried what Germany will be able to foot the bill, saying:

"If payment can be executed it will be in a form that will do her more harm than good. The shipping of excess examples of the slopping of surrendered ships and a large number of British products will be at the throat of the allied assets that Germany is quite unable to handle the side of the track against a high rock embankment on the inner side of a curve in the track. The result will be to stop and fall across the rail so close to the locomotive that it was impossible to stop the train. It struck the body of the man. The body was killed and dragged along the track for about twenty yards. The locomotive almost completely reversed at the waist. The train was stopped and the body laid carefully to rest. The train then came on to Farnie, where the facts were reported to Coroner Duthrie, who inquired into the case. The Provincial Constable McNally boarded the special passenger and went to the scene of the tragedy. On arrival, it was found that the Provincial Constable from Elio had arrived with the body of the C.P.R. man and had prepared the body and gone to Elio. The body will be brought to Farnie tonight, when it will be decided whether an inquest is necessary."

Was Logging Engineer. The man's name is John Collins Smith, and he has a brother in Winnipeg and one in Brandon. He had been working at the Ross-Saskatoon Lumber camp and was a logging locomotive engineer. He was a man of forty to fifty years of age, about five feet eight or nine inches in height. A C.P.R. card issued at Farnie was found on his person, and he has been known here by logging men for some time. Both sides looked for him in an accident at Winnipeg several years ago and failed to pass examination for a railway reduction of the late war.

Coroner Duthrie will not decide whether an inquest will be held until he has seen the remains of the locomotive and the regular engineer, who was on the locomotive at the time of the accident. The body of the locomotive engineer will be held until the regular engineer, who was on the locomotive at the time of the accident, is brought to Farnie.

Master Mechanic McFegun was running with the regular engineer to test out the locomotive, which explains his being at the Lethbridge Herald. The body of the locomotive engineer will be held until the regular engineer, who was on the locomotive at the time of the accident, is brought to Farnie.

The decision of the government was arrived at after consultation with Premier Stewart's physician.

W. Railway properties to the government of Alberta, might come up at the coming session.

MAN CUT IN BY C. P. ENGINE EAST OF FERNIE

PERNIE, Jan. 31.—As the east-bound local train was running eastward at a high rate of speed this morning, Master Mechanic McFegun was at the throttle at the time a sudden saw a man who was standing on the south-hand side of the track against a high rock embankment on the inner side of a curve in the track. The result was to stop and fall across the rail so close to the locomotive that it was impossible to stop the train. It struck the body of the man. "MADNESS"—THE GERMANS CALL TERMS

HAMBURG, Feb. 1.—It is not impossible that Foreign Minister Simons will reply to the reparations demands decided upon at Paris last week by resigning from the German government says the Berlin correspondent of the Freidenkblatt of this city.

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—Dr. Walter Simons, German foreign minister, will tell the Reichstag at its session this afternoon, the Boersen Zeitung states, that Germany cannot subscribe to the allied reparations demands on the ground that they are not possible of fulfillment.

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—Germans regard the reparations terms decided upon by the supreme allied council in Paris last week as fantastic and impossible of execution and it is the general opinion the government cannot agree to them. The cabinet, which received the text of the allied note yesterday was in executive session until late last night, and the note was released for publication until too late for editorial comment.

"Madness," is the term leaders of the Reichstag used in discussing the reparations conditions. Foreign Minister Simons declared the execution of the terms would "produce chaos not only in Germany, but throughout Central Europe, as the bankruptcy of Germany would also bankrupt part of Germany's war creditors, among whom is France."

Herbert Gutmann of the Dresden bank said:

"The reparations figures are absurd and the tax levy on export is absolutely beyond understanding. The latter would kill Germany's export business, and how does the entente expect Germany to pay if she cannot export her produce?"

The German mark showed a sharp decline during the close of yesterday's session of the Bourse, when the terms of the reparations were announced.

TERMS IMPOSSIBLE
LONDON, Feb. 1.—It will be impossible for Germany to pay the amount fixed as her reparation debt to the allies by the supreme allied council at Paris last week, says Prof. John H. Keynes, principal representative of the British treasury at the Versailles peace conference. He argues that Germany to have surplus cash worth £200,000,000 must have exports worth at least £700,000,000. Two per cent of this amount would be £14,000,000, and therefore he says that with £700,000,000 in exports, she could just pay a fixed sum of £14,000,000, plus £24,000,000 making a total of £38,000,000.

"That is to say," he continues, "on this vast scale would be required to pay the minimum annuity of £100,000,000 plus the export premium. If the Paris proposals are more than wind, they mean a complete reorganization of the channels of international trade. If anything remotely like them should really be imposed to happen, the reaction on British trade and industry would be incalculable. It is an outrage that the allied leaders should have dealt with each other by using the methods of a poker party."

Norman Agell, author, lecturer and peace advocate, is quoted by the Daily Herald, organ of labor, as having characterized the reparations demands on Germany as "eye for eye, tooth for tooth, and fantastic rubbish."

"Of course, the interview continues, 'there will be a hitch every year and the second and the third until the map of Europe is entirely altered and alliances are rearranged.'"

UNIVERSITY HOLSTEIN MAKES RECORD

Professor A. A. Dowell, of the Department of Animal Husbandry at the University of Alberta, announces that the three-year-old Holstein-Friesian, bred by W. McE. Adams, of the three Prairie Provinces is now held by Roselund Mutual Co. 57829. The cow, bred by W. McE. Adams, of Chesterville, Ont., and purchased by the University of Alberta in January, 1919, when just under two years of age. Sired by De-Kol Mutual Co. 16302, and out of the cow Roselund Maid -10485, with a year's record of 21,150 lbs. milk and 905 lbs. butter fat. It will be evident that her ability to produce has been inherited from meritorious ancestors. As a two-year-old, Roselund Mutual Dekol produced 12,958 pounds milk and 610 pounds of butter. In her three-year-old form she gave 17,287 lbs. milk and 887.5 lbs. butter. This is not only the three-year-old record for the Prairie Province, but places her sixth in the entire Dominion.

It will be of interest to note the feed consumed in making this record. During the 365 day period, Roselund was fed 2106 lbs. oat chaff, 1661 lbs. wheat bran, 1626 lbs. linseed oilmeal, 284 lbs. barley chaff, 124 lbs. shorts, 1885 lbs. prairie hay, 2543 lbs. oat green feed hay, 1480 lbs. roots, 5181 lbs. silage in addition to 1 lb. of concentrate. Considering 3 lbs. silage as equal to 1 lb. of hay, this gives a total of 6256 lbs. of hay or hay equivalent. Creditting roots with 30 per cent moisture content and each pound of dry matter equal to 1 lb. of grain, the total grain or grain equivalent consumed was 5860 lbs. To produce 160 lbs. of milk it required 35.9 lbs. of hay or hay equivalent and 33.7 lbs. of grain or grain equivalent. For each pound of butter fat, 8.81 lbs. of hay or hay equivalent and 8.25 pounds of grain or grain equivalent were required. Though the total amount of feed consumed is high, the amount required per unit of production is much below the average. It is a well known fact that a keen appetite and vigorous constitution are essential to continuous high production.

SALVATION ARMY NOTES

Great salvation Meeting will be conducted in the Oddfellows' Hall on Sunday, February 28th at 7:30 p.m. Band in attendance. Everbody welcome.

Lieutenant R. Rattersby, C.O.

"Nauseus Weed"
Smoking is a dirty, vile, rotten habit remarked the Salvation Army officer. There are only three animals that will use tobacco, a foul worm, a leathouse African goat, and species of man. Even a hog or a dog draws the line at tobacco. The use of tobacco also effects a man's posterity. It is an unsightly, and so an unbecomingly habit. "A man, holding a cigar, said to a lady: 'Is it offensive to you for a gentleman to smoke in your presence?' 'The answer: 'No gentleman ever does so. Do you ask 'Cannot a man be a Christian and use tobacco?' I would answer, as did Moody, 'Oh, yes, I suppose he can, but he will be a nasty one.' Paul counsels: Cleanse yourself from all filthiness of the flesh and spirit. 'For ye do not sit as the temple of the Holy Ghost.' Whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God—Carry out the words of the apostle. If you cannot, then forever abstain from it, in His name.

The Sunday services in the Army Hall were of interest to all who attended. After the pastor's address, street, where the spool was proclaimed with no uncertain sound, the church marched to the home where a meeting was continued. The band was good and will be heard to better advantage, until further notice.

Lieut. Batterbury preached at a mid-night prayer meetings At 16:25-34, which resulted in one getting so under conviction that he said: "Bless what must I do to be saved?"

Notice also in verse 26: "Every one's hands were loosed." As chains and hands fell off the prisoners they were free—just so the chains of bad habits that keep people from God can be broken and you can be free. In St. John's Gospel, 8:36, we find these words: "If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed."

On Feb. 28th there will be a Salvation Army Young People's demonstration, when a good program will be given with the band in attendance. Everbody welcome.

NEW REX-BEACH PICTURE. "GOING SOME" A COMEDY WITH TRILLIA

Empress Theatre—Fri. and Sat.

"Going Some," by Rex Beach, the latest of this author's productions made by the Goldenwyn Pictures Corporation, is a story of the eternal antagonism between the cattle ranchers and sheep ranchers of the West. It is humorous and contains many things of the kind that lovers of the screen appreciate. The story in detail is as follows:

At the first inter-collegiate meet following the war are Mrs. Roberts Keap (Ethel Gray Terry), Helen Blake (Lillian Hall), and Jean Chaplin (Helen Ferguson). Jean is engaged to marry Roberts' brother, Herbert Covington (Frank Braidwood), Helen's crack sprinter. Roberts' husband, Captain Donald Keap (Kenneth Harlan), has just returned from overseas. Prior to his crossing the Atlantic, he and Roberts had quarrelled, and her attitude now is not one that promises reconciliation. Helen Blake, who is a student at the same college, is a friend of Helen's, and is recently courted by Berkeley Fresno (Walter Hiers), the fat college tenor, and J. Wallingford Speed (Cullen Landels), who lives up to his name. To impress Helen, Speed tells her a wonderful tale of fiction about his prowess on the track. Mrs. Gallagher (Lillian Langdon), owner of the ranch adjoining the Keaps, is not in love with her nephew's outfit. When the Keaps arrive with a crowd of visitors they find their men downcast and brooding. Their star runner had been beaten by Gallagher's man Skinner (M. B. Fyfe). Roberts assures them that Covington will win back their money, but he is unable to run and Roberts offers the money Speed as their champion. Speed has brought the college trainer along with him as a bluff. Glass (Willard Louis) the trainer, Speed, who stands no chance against Skinner. Mrs. Gallagher, an inveterate gambler, bets her entire ranch against the Keap's run down outfit on the outcome of the race.

Just before the race oil is discovered on the Keap ranch which enhances its value a great deal. To keep the bet on the original terms after the discovery of oil would mean a big loss to the Keaps and would be unfair. The straightening out of this puzzle forms the climax of a story of absorbing interest.

NAZIMOVA HERE SOON IN "MADAME PEACOCK"

Nazimova will appear Monday and Tuesday at the Empress Theatre in two character roles each resembling in some measure the great Russian star's own career. The picture is "Madame Peacock," from a story by Billie Weismann, and it brings Nazimova to the screen first as Jane Goring, a reprobate stage star, and then as Gloria Cromwell, a young girl as naive and charming as Jane is brilliant.

Certainly Nazimova should make this story live, for she has been in the course of her remarkable career both the young girl of great promise and the great actress who has fulfilled her promise.

In this her latest Metro picture Nazimova has chosen Gerson Probert for leading man. This charmingly adapted the picture for direction by Ray C. Smallwood. Rudolph Berling photographed it and Edward Shulter provided special art settings.

MY TRUST

I cannot see my Saviour's face
But I can feel His saving grace,
And know His presence near;
And I can trust His guiding eye,
The pitfalls in my path I spy,
And safely through them steer.

I cannot walk the streets of gold,
Nor sheltered be in heavenly fold,
While in this earthly sphere;
But I can tread the narrow way,
And, growing stronger day by day,
Can praise my Saviour here.

I cannot rise on scarp's wing,
Nor join in angels while they sing
In heavenly choral choir;
But I, with notes of triumph clear,
Some weary comrade's heart may cheer,
Some human life inspire.

I know not what the future holds
Of good or ill for human souls,
But this my trust shall be:
That He who notes the sparrow's fall,
And feeds the ravens when they call,
Will always care for me.

THE NAME OF THE RACE

(Manchester Guardian.)

Everybody knows that national and racial names are a fertile source of offence. The speaker or writer who calls that 'English' which he should have called 'British' brings a bombardment of reproach about his head.

To speak of the English language is not always safe, and those who are inhabitants of the United Kingdom and the Dominions who condemn the adjective in the British Empire, and utterly deny that they belong to a British race. A generation ago it was common to call everybody and everything which could be derived from these island 'Anglo-Saxon.' We used to be instructed in the peculiar virtues of the Anglo-Saxon stock, the Anglo-Saxon morality, the Anglo-Saxon civilization. The term was never accepted without protest; even in the prime of its popularity there were those who ran Anglo-Saxonism against it. It is obsolescent now, like the school history which would have it that the Saxons obliterated everything and everything which they found in England, and allowed no subsequent racialism to import anything of enduring influence. A natural complement to the nineteenth-century glorification of the Saxons was the discovery, or re-discovery, of the Celt. It was 'Celtic magic,' Matthew Arnold postulated instructed us, which made our poetry different from any other, while all our politics and our ethics, according to the academically dominant historians, were brought over by Hengist and Horsa. Plainly there was no alternative to Anglo-Saxon but something like Anglo-Celt. The awkward fact is that the Celtic fringe includes people utterly unlike each other in physique and in temperament, and that some of the ancient Celts were indistinguishably like the ancient Teutons, though obvious enough, were conveniently ignored. Then history began to discover new horizons and science to devise new classifications. Identity of language was no longer allowed to mean identity of race or conquest obliteration of the defeated. It was discerned to be no more true that the Saxons had destroyed the Britons than that the Norman had annihilated the Saxons. History, aided by the anthropologist, saw wave after wave of conquerors surging over the little islands, each bringing something new, none destroying altogether what was old. We begin to see our Anglo-Saxon, Anglo-Celt race as composed of many elements, and some of its strongest characteristics, physical and mental, may be Celtic or Saxon, but far older than those names or the people who were there when the Celts and Saxons first came to the island.

There are races of men in all Europe, Nordic, Alpine and Mediterranean; but looked beyond them to a dim antiquity in which other and alien peoples had their day and ceased to be, or, perhaps, changed, and old transfused their forgotten blood here and there to bear fruit after many a thousand years.

Now we find Sir Auckland Geddes, defining people of English stock to Americans as British, Roman, and Nordic strains. The analysis will serve as well as another, though what precisely he means by British he might be puzzled to say. The name he proposes is Britonoid, which, on his own showing, is not exact, and by no process of reasoning against himing by long life. Yet it is valuable as one more warning against hiding by the simplicity of racial names the complexity of fact, and against easy sentimental dogmatism about racial qualities.

It's peculiar how proud a man is of himself and how he puts himself on the back for having a little backbone or a little spirit, but he is not afraid to jump all over him for daring to assert himself has proven groundless.

Don't growl about the things that don't go right—but don't be satisfied with something that can be done better.

A full-grown an leading a possid dog around comes about as near our idea of a fool as anything we can think of.

The recent census shows 642 poets working at manual labor. In these prosperous days even poets can earn a living.

It's sometimes laughable how a person will study the outside of the envelope to try to guess what's inside.

People who pretend to be happy at least have a whole lot of unhappiness for others.

Let the knockers strike—no one

MA AND HER AUTO

Before we take an auto ride Pa says to Ma, "My Dear,"

Now just remember I don't need assistance from the rear:

If you will just keep still back there and hold in check your fright

I'll take you where you want to go and get you back all right.

Remember that my hearing's good and also I'm not blind,

And I can drive this car without suggestions from behind."

Ma promises that she'll keep still, then off we go.

But soon she notices ahead a peddler and his cart.

"You'd better turn your horn," says she, "to let him know we're near. He might turn out."

Pa says, "I don't need glasses yet, but really it may be

That I am blind an' cannot see what's right in front of me."

A little further on Ma says: "He signalled for a turn."

And Pa says: "Did he?" "In a tone that's hot enough to burn."

"Oh, there's a boy on roller skates," Ma cries, "now do go slow."

Pa says, "I dunno, I think I don't need glasses yet, but really it may be

That I am blind an' cannot see what's right in front of me."

Ma promises that she'll keep still, then off we go.

But soon she notices ahead a peddler and his cart.

"You'd better turn your horn," says she, "to let him know we're near. He might turn out."

Pa says, "I don't need glasses yet, but really it may be wants them on the job anyway.

Majorities may not always be right, but they get the benefit of the doubt.

One way to save your face is not to stick it into other people's business.

We have seen some people who might be termed bachelor girls.

Fast friends leave you as soon as you cut down on the speed.

Good luck seems to stumble right into the hush.

Don't burn your bridges ahead of you.

SAME THING

"I am trying to find my brother," said the Englishman timidly to the fierce looking person with a sheath knife on one side of his belt and a six-shooter on the other. "He was in this neighborhood about four years ago. His name was Dobbinson."

Dobbinson—kind of goody, goody chap?"

"Yes, that's the man," Guess I know him. He committed suicide three years ago."

"What my brother committed suicide?" Was he ill or in trouble, or what?"

"He called me a liar, stranger."

TOO EASY ON HIMSELF

Some people look on their sins too lightly. They are like Aunt Hannah, who attended communion regularly, but it came to her pastor's ears one day that she had stolen a hen.

Accordingly, the next time she partook, the good man rebuked her privately.

"Aunt Hannah," he said, "I should think you'd be ashamed to come to communion when it is generally known that you stole a hen."

"Man goodness, pawson," said Aunt Hannah, "Ah wouldn't let no old hen start bewixt me and de Lawd's Table."

JACK'S ANSWER

The schoolmistress was giving a practical lesson on fractions.

"Children," she said, "there is a piece of meat. If I cut it in two what should I have?"

"Halves," said the class in chorus. "And if I cut it again?"

"Quarters," came the reply at once. "And if I cut it again?"

"Eighths," said half the class, the other half maintaining a dignified silence.

"Good! And if I cut the pieces again?"

Dead silence in the class, but one hand was raised in solitary state at the back of the room.

"Well, Jack, what is the answer?" "Pleas, ma'am, ninecentat."

NO UMBRELLA

A milkman in a country town was brought before the local court to answer a charge of adulteration.

"You are charged," said the magistrate, "with selling adulterated milk. Have you anything to say in answer to the charge?"

"Well, your honor," replied the milkman, "the night before it was raining very hard and the only cause I can give is the cow must have got wet through."

It's usually the busy man who does things on time.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

parted, proclaiming the evening very well spent.

Mrs. James Young and little daughter Irene left Macleod on Wednesday to join Mr. Young at Lethbridge.

H. L. Nobbs visited with Rev. W. J. Merrick a few days this week on his way from Hillcrest to Hanna, Alta.

W. K. Mackie has sold the barn located on his 21st Street property to E. Whipple, who is moving it out to his ranch.

Table defeated Macleod in a hardy contest hockey game at Taber on Tuesday night last. The score was: Taber 4—Macleod 4.

R. Dickson, of the Macleod Supply staff, suffered from a severe cold during the first three days of this week, but is now again on duty at the store.

Charles Bryant, of the Ford Motor Sales, Calgary, was a business visitor in Macleod this week and while here looked up old comrades of the old Battery, C.F.A.

Coleman hockey officials have applied to the president of the Crows Nest Hockey League to have the meeting to consider Lethbridge's protest held in Blairmore. The meeting will be held in Macleod Saturday afternoon at three o'clock as previously called. This meeting is called to hear a protest from Lethbridge over the game with Coleman held in Lethbridge last week. This game, which was called for in Macleod, was decided to be played between the two teams some time previous, and owing to a mixup in instructions the game was forced to be played on Lethbridge last week.

The Macleod Hockey Club is making elaborate preparations for the dance to be given on Friday night next at the Town Hall. The decorations will be with flags and bunting, and the lighting is being draped with red tissue to give a pleasing effect. A notable feature of the decorations is the drawing room effect arranged with proper daintiness and scenery on the stage afford pleasant sitting out or between the accommodation for guests.

This is an unique conception and to which alone will repay the price of admission. The visiting team from Lethbridge will be the champions of the home team at this function.

Mrs. C. A. Mercer gave a most delightful bridge party Saturday afternoon, January 29th. Cards were played by four tables. The first place was won by Mr. McNeill and the second by Mrs. Matheson. Mrs. Fawcett, Mrs. W. A. Lewis, Mrs. D. G. McKenna, Mrs. Skedding, Mrs. Mercer, Mrs. Gray, Mrs. Whittle, Calgary; Mrs. Claude Gardner, Macleod; Mrs. Young, Macleod; Mrs. Peterson, Mrs. Claude Gardner, Mrs. Embury, Mrs. Ferguson, Mrs. Davis and Miss McCaug.

A Teaching Mission, conducted by the Rev. W. Simpson B.A., Rector of St. Bernard's Church, Calgary, will be held in Christ Church, Macleod, during the week commencing Ash Wednesday, Feb. 22. This is intended primarily for Church of England members, but all who may find such services helpful will be heartily welcomed. The services will be as follows—Holy Communion, Feb. 20th, 10th and 16th at 10 a.m.; Feb. 10th and 16th at 8 a.m.; Mission Service each evening, except Saturday, at 7:30 p.m. Children's Service each evening, except Saturday and Monday, following afternoon school; service for women only at 4 p.m. on Monday, Feb. 14th; services on Sunday, Feb. 13th at the usual hours.

The annual meeting of the Macleod Local Council of Women was held in the Presbyterian Church, Jan. 25th. The following officers were elected for 1921: President, Miss Muir; vice-presidents, Mrs. E. Whipple, Mrs. J. M. Muir, Mrs. W. Lewis, Mrs. Jordan; secretary, Mrs. Bruce; treasurer, Mrs. Peterson. Resolutions were received from the affiliated societies.

Miss Hodnett read the report of the Fortuitously Literary Club. Mrs. Forster Brown of the W. A. of Christ Church, Macleod, was elected Secretary.

Mr. W. M. J. S. Forster Brown of the W.C.T.U. Two delegates had been sent to the meeting of the provincial executive of the National Council of Women, Mrs. Peterson and Mrs. R. J. E. Gardiner. Mrs. Gardiner read a most interesting report of that meeting, which was followed by an address by Mrs. O. C. Edwards. She gave an account of the delegation from the provincial executive which interviewed the government, Edmonton, on December 22nd and presented the resolutions passed at that meeting about the following subjects:

That a divorce in Alberta be granted to a wife for the same cause as is now granted to a husband.—That wife and child should be made an extrajudicial offence.—That the moral father of a child born out of lawful wedlock be made legally responsible for his or her support.—That adequate home for incurables.—Government homes for the poor.—A detention home for women of confirmed evil habits.—adequate care of mental defectives.—Industrial homes for boys and girls.—amendment to the Dower Act.—A wife's interest in her husband's estate during his life time.

The meeting arranged by the Local Council of Women for Miss Mathews, Provincial Health Nurse, to meet the parents of the children of the public school on Thursday, Jan. 27th, was largely attended. In the absence of the president Mrs. E. Whipple, one of the vice-presidents, introduced Miss Mathews. After giving a short history of the movement for the inspection of school children, Miss Mathews spoke of the work in Macleod and urged those present to enforce the directions she had given to the children. Macleod is the largest school in her district. She found over 50 per cent of the scholars in perfect health, most of the rest suffering from minor defects. Miss Mathews commented on the excellent discipline of the school, saying it was the best she had found in her district. At the conclusion of Miss Mathews' address Mrs. O. C. Edwards thanked her for her visit to the school.

The Military Enchir party given by Mrs. J. W. McDonald, Tuesday afternoon, February 1st, was one of the most enjoyable and pleasant affairs of the season. England, Scotland, Ireland, Canada, Australia and New Zealand figured in the contest. In Australia had the most flags at the close of the afternoon. The ladies who were defending the successful table were: Mrs. Mercer, Mrs. McNeill, Mrs. Whittle and Miss Margaret McNeill. During the test Mrs. Ferguson poured and Mrs. Embury cut the ices. Miss Margaret McNeill and Mrs. Gray were serving. Those present were: Mrs. Martin, Mrs. McNichol, Lethbridge; Mrs. Lindsay, Mrs. Pennyfather, Lethbridge; Mrs. Milburn, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Struthers, Mrs. McLean, Mrs. McNeill, Mrs. D. G. McKenna, Lethbridge; Mrs. Skedding, Mrs. Mercer, Mrs. Gray, Mrs. Whittle, Calgary; Mrs. Claude Gardner, Macleod; Mrs. Young, Macleod; Mrs. Peterson, Mrs. Claude Gardner, Mrs. Embury, Mrs. Ferguson, Mrs. Davis and Miss McCaug.

As the man and the maid strolled through the picture gallery she stopped before one of the exhibits.

"Oh, how sweet!" she breathed.

"I wonder what it means?" he said, as he eyed the pictured pair who clung together in an attitude of love.

"Oh, Charlie, don't you see?" the girl chided tenderly. "He has just asked her to marry him and she has consented. It's lovely. What does the artist call the picture?"

The young man leaned nearer and eyed a label on the frame.

"I see!" he cried. "It's printed on this card—'Sold!'"

The annual meeting of the Macleod Local Council of Women was held in the Presbyterian Church, Jan. 25th. The following officers were elected for 1921: President, Miss Muir; vice-presidents, Mrs. E. Whipple, Mrs. J. M. Muir, Mrs. W. Lewis, Mrs. Jordan; secretary, Mrs. Bruce; treasurer, Mrs. Peterson. Resolutions were received from the affiliated societies.

Miss Hodnett read the report of the Fortuitously Literary Club. Mrs. Forster Brown of the W. A. of Christ Church, Macleod, was elected Secretary.

Mr. W. M. J. S. Forster Brown of the W.C.T.U. Two delegates had been sent to the meeting of the provincial executive of the National Council of Women, Mrs. Peterson and Mrs. R. J. E. Gardiner. Mrs. Gardiner read a most interesting report of that meeting, which was followed by an address by Mrs. O. C. Edwards. She gave an account of the delegation from the provincial executive which interviewed the government, Edmonton, on December 22nd and presented the resolutions passed at that meeting about the following subjects:

That a divorce in Alberta be granted to a wife for the same cause as is now granted to a husband.—That wife and child should be made an extrajudicial offence.—That the moral father of a child born out of lawful wedlock be made legally responsible for his or her support.—That adequate home for incurables.—Government homes for the poor.—A detention home for women of confirmed evil habits.—adequate care of mental defectives.—Industrial homes for boys and girls.—amendment to the Dower Act.—A wife's interest in her husband's estate during his life time.

The meeting arranged by the Local Council of Women for Miss Mathews, Provincial Health Nurse, to meet the parents of the children of the public school on Thursday, Jan. 27th, was largely attended. In the absence of the president Mrs. E. Whipple, one of the vice-presidents, introduced Miss Mathews. A POSER FOR HER

Miss Boland, the daring French woman who recently flew the Channel, says that the only question regarding her aeronautical experiences that she was totally unable to answer was put to her by a child.

I was, says Miss Boland, visiting a friend in Paris, and my host's little girl, aged about eight or nine following on a lengthy cross-examination, wound up with this question:

"But, tell me, m-m-m-m-m-m-m-m-m-m, in all earnestness: 'If the end of the world was to come, and the earth was destroyed while you was up in your aeroplane, where would you land when you came down?'"

UPSTAIRS AND DOWN

A picture that you should not miss more than you should your breakfast in the morning, a corking, delightful comedy-drama of society life, will be seen at the Empress Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday next week when beautiful Olive Thomas appears in "Upstairs and Down."

"Upstairs and Down" is a picture of the famous stage success of the same name by Frederic and Fanny Holland. Miss Thomas with her abundance of charm and beauty and effervescent personality gives a delightful characterization of Alice Chester, an entrancing, vivacious, "lady tramp" whose entire life seems to be spent in getting in and out of scrapes.

At a house party in the fashionable Ives country home at Iveshurst, Long Island, Alice delights in a desperate flirtation with Terry O'Keefe, a grandson of Ireland with a captivating brogue, much to the chagrin of her fiancé, Tom Carey. But to Alice, man is life, and flirtation food.

Terry tells Alice that he must run up to town for a few days and she with a wise twinkle in her eye says nothing. Terry is surprised when he arrives at his club town to receive a phone call from Alice, who tells him she also has come into the city and shyly asks him to take her out to dinner. The dinner under her beguiling ways grows into a regular election. At the roof, where they finish their little party with a few dances, Mr. Ives and a business associate are dining. When he arrives back at Iveshurst the next morning he tells the family where and with whom he saw Alice. The family are shocked and grieved, especially Tom Carey. They had thought that Alice was at a party at a civil friend's house and was to remain over night. Although it has been an entirely innocent affair, Tom and Terry may come to blows when the latter appears later in the day. Alice arrives alone still later and laughingly recalls the scolding words which are hurled at her.

While Alice is dressing, her sister Betty (whoever and wherever the result of an automobile accident puts in her appearance. Mr. Ives tells her about Alice's escapade and suggests that she try and charm the charming Terry. So Betty is carried back to the overturned car and placed in an entrancing position to be rescued by Terry, who has been sent for by the chauffeur.

And Terry is caught by the bait. It's a case of love at first sight. That night he asks Betty to marry him. She consents; but when she tells Alice that little mischief-maker comes back at her with a booming: "She tells her that Terry rightly belongs to her as he has wronged her. Betty is heartbroken but tries to console her sister and promises that she will make him marry her.

An excellent plot, full of complications and many tangles, "Upstairs and Down" will bring the interest of a most blasé film fan. A charming star, a fine supporting cast including Robert Ellis, Mary Chase, and many others, all go to make up the excellence of this super-production which will thrill and tease, amuse and delight.

GET A DOZEN

The young housewife, looking very pretty and workmanlike in big green coveralls, was cleaning out the pantry cupboard.

"Dickie," she called to her young husband, "I want you to bring me a wire trap home tomorrow."

"But, angel," cried the young man, "I brought you one home only yesterday."

"I know, pet," called back the young wife, "but that one has a mouse in it."

PLAYS IMPORTANT PART WITH WILLIAM DUNCAN IN BIG SERIAL—"THE SILENT AVENGER." Read the Letter from Mr. Duncan, which follows:

I duplicated the stern and propeller of an ocean liner in a tank 40 x 40 feet, containing 15,000 gallons of water. It was a difficult position from which to sustain power as the shaft was low and the resistance of the huge propeller in the water was tremendous. But, as I visualized the scene of my story, my life actually depended on the performance of the motor I used. I had to be drawn toward the giant screw as it churned the water into foam. Control had to be absolute, because if the action of the water had thrown me too close to the wheel the result can easily be imagined. I wanted power that would turn that propeller at any speed I required and a motor that would stop on the instant.

I experimented with stationary engines. I couldn't get what I wanted. Then I tried the Hart-Parr Tractor.

The effect was ideal. The propeller speed could be controlled accurately and a perfect propeller wake was maintained. I exterminated the dangerous screws required without undergoing unnecessary hardships.

I assure you that whenever I need power delivered under trying conditions I shall rely on the Hart-Parr Tractor.

I congratulate you upon representing such a highly satisfactory machine.

Very truly yours, WILLIAM DUNCAN.

GENTLEMEN: If I neglected to tell you of the wonderful performance of a Hart-Parr Tractor in one of my chapter plays, "The Silent Avenger," I would be doing you and lacking appreciation of an excellent piece of machinery.

Control had to be absolute, because if the action of the water had thrown me too close to the wheel the result can easily be imagined. I wanted power that would turn that propeller at any speed I required and a motor that would stop on the instant.

I experimented with stationary engines. I couldn't get what I wanted. Then I tried the Hart-Parr Tractor.

The effect was ideal. The propeller speed could be controlled accurately and a perfect propeller wake was maintained. I exterminated the dangerous screws required without undergoing unnecessary hardships.

I assure you that whenever I need power delivered under trying conditions I shall rely on the Hart-Parr Tractor.

I congratulate you upon representing such a highly satisfactory machine.

Very truly yours, WILLIAM DUNCAN.

GENTLEMEN: If I neglected to tell you of the wonderful performance of a Hart-Parr Tractor in one of my chapter plays, "The Silent Avenger," I would be doing you and lacking appreciation of an excellent piece of machinery.

I duplicated the stern and propeller of an ocean liner in a tank 40 x 40 feet, containing 15,000 gallons of water. It was a difficult position from which to sustain power as the shaft was low and the resistance of the huge propeller in the water was tremendous. But, as I visualized the scene of my story, my life actually depended on the performance of the motor I used. I had to be drawn toward the giant screw as it churned the water into foam. Control had to be absolute, because if the action of the water had thrown me too close to the wheel the result can easily be imagined. I wanted power that would turn that propeller at any speed I required and a motor that would stop on the instant.

IMMEDIATE ACTION IS DEMANDED

LONDON, Jan. 28.—British organized labor, at the national conference of the Labor Party and the Trades Union Congress, demanded immediate action on the part of the government to remedy the plight brought about by the steadily increasing unemployment in the country, endorsed a policy which its authors assert will gradually remove the cause of the present industrial depression, and adjourned until Friday 23 in order to give the labor members of parliament an opportunity to press for the desired remedial steps.

If we cannot achieve what this programme suggests by constitutional methods, we shall adopt some means of extra-constitutional character," declared Robert Williams, leader of the Transport Workers, in supporting the resolution.

Councils Moderation

The conference was characterized by the Daily Herald, the labor organ, as either the most momentous or the most futile in labor's history. But it was productive of little of a national nature. It represented the culmination of numerous committee meetings held during recent weeks by the workers, at which a common policy regarding unemployment and related issues was formulated. General dissatisfaction with the government's proposed remedies was unmistakably reflected by the delegates, who however, seemed to differ on the most effective means of moving the government to the desired action. When Mr. Williams and other speakers brandished the general strike as the one the workers would eventually have to resort to in order to accomplish their aims, there was applause. But when a moment later the railwaymen's leader, J. H. Thomas, counselled moderation, urging that parliament was the only authority which could give effect to the workers' resolution, there was also applause, and it was difficult to determine which section was the determining one.

Industrial Crisis

The miners' leader, Frank Hodges, said: "We are in the greatest industrial crisis of our history, the outlook is gloomy indeed, despite the protestations of the chairman and directors of the great banking concerns. They are all artificial attempts to dispel the gloom settling down on Europe, and which is casting its shadow on America."

Mr. Hodges and other speakers insisted that the government's refusal to open trade with Russia was one of the fundamental causes of the present distress. "We have erected political barriers," declared Mr. Hodges, "not because our capitalists are afraid to trade with Russia, but because the politicians are afraid that a particular form of government might spread eastward 'till it overleaps them."

Benjamin Turner, who was a member of the British Labor delegation to Russia, said that the committee's plan for restoring trade was "better than ideals or a revolution."

To Urge Government

Mr. Thomas promised that the Laborites in parliament from February 15 to 25, would use every means to force upon the government definite recognition of unemployment as a matter of paramount importance. This brought from Mr. Williams the declaration: "If we content ourselves with merely making resolutions the government will continue to treat us with contempt and we would deserve it."

Neil MacLean, member of parliament from Glasgow, ridiculed Mr. Williams' declaration and said: "The safest place to be when a revolution comes is a trade union office."

The resolution covering the conference's proposals, which was adopted will be sent to the prime minister for consideration, to the members of the cabinet and all the members of parliament.

The Labor proposals embodied in the resolution call for trade with Russia; restoration of trade with other continental countries; a cessation of wars; stabilization of international exchange rates; an extension of credit; organization of a European transport system; state ownership of an unemployment benefit of 40 shillings weekly to each unemployed man or woman over 18 years, with additional allowance to dependents and an under-employment allowance on the same basis provide for the adoption of short time, the proportionate benefit to be calculated on the total days lost weekly.—Calgary Herald.

Don't Use Drugs For Constipation

Bathe Internally—the One Natural Way.

Did you ever know of any person who was permanently cured of constipation by taking drugs of any kind? Drugs simply force nature, and larger doses are required from time to time until the trouble becomes chronic.

Internal bathing with the J. B. L. Canale is the only permanent relief from Constipation. It keeps the bowels in a large lower intestine, free from all accumulation, and the system performs its regular functions, and the trouble further trouble.

Mr. F. Babine, Proprietor, Alexander Hotel, Ottawa, writes: "The J. B. L. Canale has been a new man of me. I would not sell it for all the money in this world if I could not get another. Through my recommendation I know of a number of my friends who have been using it with the same satisfaction. For people troubled with Constipation, I say it is a godsend, and can heartily recommend it."

The J. B. L. Canale is the only perfect appliance for Internal Bathing ever devised. It is endorsed by over half a million enthusiastic users. Ask to have it explained to you at A. D. Ferguson, Druggist, Macleod, Alta., or write for booklet to Tyrnell's Hygienic Institute, 165 Colton St., Toronto.

DRURY WILL DEFEND THE "OPEN DOOR"

TORONTO, Jan. 31.—Premier Drury will tomorrow take up the debate in the legislature on the address in reply to the speech from the throne. A pronouncement from the premier on the "broadening out" policy of the Ontario government is expected as an answer to sarcasm indulged in by Hon. G. H. Ferguson, Conservative leader and H. H. Dewar, K.C., Liberal leader, last Thursday, at the expense of the leader of the government. Mr. Drury took notes with the leaders of the two other parties were speaking and it is assumed that he will make a statement defining the government's position.

Answer to inquiries made by private members probably will be given this week. Probably the most interesting will be regarding the enforcement of the Ontario Temperance Act, about which two members have asked. Among the questions is the following: The appointment, remuneration and present relations with the government of Rev. J. O. L. Spradling who was a special license inspector on the Essex border and who, while acting in this capacity, shot and killed Beverley Trumble, a Sandwich hotel keeper.

A number of inquiries as to government appointments are to be answered sooner or later.—Calgary Herald.

GOVERNMENT OF ALBERTA GIVES VETERANS GRANT

EDMONTON, Feb. 1.—An emergency grant of $100 to be paid at once to the provincial command of the G.W.V.A. by the Alberta government, for the purpose of meeting the unemployment situation now obtaining in the province among the ex-servicemen, or before May 1, further grant will be given, in circumstances may require, not to exceed an additional $10,000.

Some aid from the provincial treasury in behalf of unemployed soldiers was asked for by a delegation from the G.W.V.A. which interviewed the government this morning. It was represented to the cabinet that the veterans themselves would be better pleased if work could be provided by the government, but failing that, it would be necessary to ask for a grant from the public funds, in order to deal with the situation at present existing. The sum of $5,000 would be required it was stated, within the next two months.

The veterans' officials did not ask the government to take up the Dominion relief scheme, which they said they were not pressing at the present time, but some form of government aid was absolutely necessary under the conditions that had arisen unexpectedly because of the lack of employment.—Calgary Herald.

WHERE ARE THE GRANDFATHERS

We have often seen cartoons of little ragged children, calling their fathers from saloons—but saloons are no more. A cartoon that would illustrate present conditions would be of a little girl standing in the doorway of a cabaret. She spies her grandfather dancing the "Chicago" with a young and beautiful "flapper" and cries, "Grandpa, come home and see our new little brother."

Where is the old fashioned grandfather whose role was to sit comfortably before the open fireplace, clad in plain smoking jacket, feet encased in soft felt slippers, lazily smoking a pipe, while he related a story of Little Red Riding Hood to his awe-stricken grandchildren gathered at his feet? Where is that homely body about whom an atmosphere of home always prevailed? What has happened to the wise whippers and goatees that were the pride of grandfathers of yesterday?

They are gone—gone it seems forever. Hearts have become passion-gate is disregarded—romanticism is a thing of the past. Instead of sitting before the fire and relating the tales of his youth, grandpa is learning the latest fox-trot step at a fashionable dancing academy where partners are guaranteed to each pupil; he is engaged in the manly art of seeing how many cocktails he can consume without losing his equilibrium; he is whispering away nothings into the ear of a lady—not grandpa—who calls him "Daddy" and smiles him under the chin; he is gazing spell-bound at the ample display of silk stockings displayed by the girls in the front row of the chorus; he is everywhere except where we would look for grandpa. But perhaps some day in the future, children may again enjoy the luxury of real grandpa—hall to the day!

HOW TO KEEP HIM

(By Elizabeth Marc, in the "Daily Mail," London.)

How shall I keep my husband's love? That is the burning question of the hour.

In the days of our grandmothers the novelist's job was finished when he had united two young people. It stood to reason that they lived happily ever after. But the modern writer takes up the threads where the old-fashioned novelist ended. He knows that the problem of 1920 is not to bring young people together, but to keep them together after marriage.

The bride of to-day begins with a heavy burden. Almost invariably the marriage starts in debt. Who can buy furniture or even a meagre trousseau without overstepping that veritable or those slender savings? And debt is not conducive to domestic happiness.

"How can I keep his love without eggs?" exclaimed a bride tearfully the other day. And she touched, indeed, the mainspring of the problem. For the man's heart is as surely held by puddings as is the schoolboy's by chocolates, and the price of the ingredients that make food nice is prohibitive.

But the greatest threat to the happiness of the young 'menage' is the absence of babies. Little hands hold a man's heart more surely than household of furniture, food and frills. Baby and stock indeed is the path of the young wife who must forego that almost certain anchor to her husband's affection.

Yet the problem of "how to keep him" does not arise from the above causes. The evil is farther back, and can be traced to the upbringing of the modern child.

Parents today are making immense sacrifices for their children. Not only education, but also in sports, amusements, food, and clothes, children are being given the very utmost that parents can afford. And invariably the explanation is the same. "One does not know what the future may hold for them—everything is so uncertain."

All that is very well. But beware, lest—as a result—the child grows selfish. The selfish boy becomes that which his father is so hard to "keep," and the spoilt girl grows into the bride who falls at the first fine fencer of married life.

The young married couple of today have only one idea, "What can I get for my husband's life?" Never are they concerned with what they can give.

Mothers have to think of the day when their baby will get married, and that is a lurking, pre-conceived jealousy for the shadowy daughter-in-law of the future.

But if the mothers of baby boys concerned themselves now about the happiness of the daughter-in-law of the future, how great a service would they render their sons!

And if that noisy flapper were taught that "getting" was not the aim and object of a girl's life, and that even a box of chocolates must be paid for in courtesy and consideration, she might perhaps pause and consider what she has to give the man who offers to share his hard earned livelihood with her.

The modern boys and girls are leaving their sporting instincts on the playing field. They are not carrying the precious rule of "give and receive" into their married life. To take everything and give nothing is not playing the game.

The man who refuses to trust anyone else has made everybody suspicious of him.

For quick results it's better for a girl to be popular with only one man at a time.
